About the Court

The United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit (CAFC) was established under Article III of the Constitution on October 1, 1982. The court was formed by the merger of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals and the appellate division of the United States Court of Claims. The court is located in the Howard T. Markey National Courts Building on historic Lafayette Square in Washington, D.C.

The Federal Circuit is unique among the thirteen Circuit Courts of Appeal. It has nationwide jurisdiction in a variety of subject areas, including international trade, government contracts, patents, trademarks, certain money claims against the United States government, federal personnel, veterans' benefits, and public safety officers' benefits claims. Appeals to the court come from all federal district courts, the United States Court of Federal Claims, the United States Court of International Trade, and the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.

The court also takes appeals of certain administrative agencies' decisions, including the United States Merit Systems Protection Board, the Boards of Contract Appeals, the Patent Trial and Appeal Board, and the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. Decisions of the United States International Trade Commission, the Office of Compliance, an independent agency in the legislative branch, the Government Accountability Office Personnel Appeals Board, and the Department of Justice Bureau of Justice Assistance also are reviewed by the court.

Position Overview

The United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit is currently accepting applications for a Library and Court History Archival Intern. The internship will run from June 2018 through mid-August 2018. Work hours will be scheduled during the core hours, 8:30 am – 5:00 pm. The selected incumbents will identify, authenticate, organize, and preserve materials of historical significance to the Federal Circuit, the U.S. Court of Federal Claims, and the Library. The internship will include training in best practices for reference and research, basic cataloging and classification, and basic and advanced legal research techniques both in print and online (including on Westlaw, Lexis Advance, Bloomberg Law and other specialized legal research databases). In addition, the internship will provide the opportunity to attend oral arguments and observe the workings of the Court.

Responsibilities

The Intern will assist the Library by providing support and assistance with the administrative functions of the section, which may include: archiving materials, scanning and arranging documents, conducting online and print bibliographic surveys, assisting with the digitization and cataloging of various historic court publications and photographs, assisting in the indexing, identification and cataloging of the library's photographic collection, participating in the library's ongoing collection review process (includes weeding, catalog updates, and new purchase recommendations), assisting with special projects, and performing other duties as assigned.

Representative duties include:

- Processing historical library and court records into databases using Excel and other proprietary software
- Modifying the records of materials to reflect proper identification
- digitization of court materials and photographs
- creating metadata for records
- performing quality control on scanned items
- transcription of oral histories
- other administrative and library responsibilities as needed

Required Qualifications

The Library and Court History Archival Intern must be able to work independently under the direction of the Circuit Librarian and Assistant Librarian. Applicants must possess good clerical and organizational skills; office software and keyboarding skills; good written communication skills; and the ability to communicate easily and effectively with the Circuit Librarian and other members of the Library team. In addition, the applicant must be detail-oriented and responsible with a professional demeanor. Adherence to the Code of Conduct for Judicial Employees and ability to maintain confidentiality is required.

Preferred Competencies

Preference will be given to current or recent graduate students with a demonstrated interest in libraries and library science, the law and legal research, or historical research and archives. An undergraduate degree in library science, business, public administration, political science, or a related field that would prepare a candidate well to perform in this position is preferred.

The ideal candidate will have:

- Knowledge of the federal judiciary and have a basic understanding of court and library operations; a knowledge of archival or record management principles and theory; skill in analytical and qualitative reasoning; skill in extracting information from databases and library applications; ability to learn and convey new material to individuals and groups; and skill in reviewing and comprehending library procedures and policies.

- Knowledge of materials of historical significance, in various media types, and knowledge of automated library systems as they relate to the organization and cataloging of historical materials.
- Ability to create and edit library and archival research and finding aids is a plus.

Application Process and Information

To be considered application packages must include:

1. Cover letter wherein the applicant describes the knowledge, skills, abilities, and details past archival or library experience that would make her/him well qualified to fill this position
2. Resume outlining educational background, employment history, and other relevant information
3. Application for Employment (Form AO-78 – Visit the court's website at <http://www.cafc.uscourts.gov/human-resources>. Description of work must be completed for each section of Work Experience. Incomplete and/or unsigned Applications will not be considered.
